GETTING REAL About the Doc Career
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

We all know how difficult it is to build a career as a documentary filmmaker. So, how can filmmakers sustain a career over the long haul? A probing discussion with filmmakers at various stages in their careers reveals the hard-earned lessons that come from overcoming obstacles, taking advantage of opportunities, and pursuing different strategies for carving out a career.

PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

No press will be permitted to attend this session.
A social media blackout is in effect for this session.

For too long, getting an accurate accounting of digital distribution numbers has been as illusory for filmmakers as the Holy Grail. Learn more about the critical issues at stake in the transparency debate and clarify what steps you, the filmmaker, can take so that you aren’t making and distributing your films in the dark.

MODERATOR: Thom Powers

Indie Doc Sustainability, Part 1: A Guided Discussion
LAFD MUSEUM

This session is open to filmmakers only.
Indie Doc Sustainability Part 2: Reflections and Q&A immediately follows this session and is open to all conference registrants.

Participate in the formation of the Independent Documentary Sustainability Task Force by sharing your thoughts during an informal guided dialogue on how the evolution of our field, and the economic forces behind it, impact our professional and personal lives. The information gathered during this discussion will inform the foundation of the Task Force’s quantitative research study and analysis of our field. Identify challenges, explore unintended consequences and be prepared to speak constructively, bravely, honestly...in the spirit of discovery and change.

MODERATORS: Tina DiFeliciantonio & Casey Rae
From Sundance to Oscar
TWENTY FEET FROM STARDOM: A Case Study
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

Morgan Neville’s 20 Feet From Stardom began its meteoric release by opening the 2013 Sundance Film Festival. Over the following year the film garnered praise from critics and audiences alike, earned nearly $5 million at the box office and took home the Oscar®. This in-depth and frank discussion looks at what — and who — it took to sell and release one of the most successful independent docs of 2013.

MODERATOR: Sacha Gervasi
Josh Braun, Morgan Neville, Tom Quinn, Nancy Willen

The Story of Impact:
How We Got Here, Where We Are Going
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS

Surveys soliciting filmmaker input on the hot-button issue of impact are becoming commonplace. But in most cases, the issues around impact are framed by film organizations, rather than by filmmakers themselves. Reframing the discussion through their own lens, filmmakers Pamela Yates and Paco de Onis, who have been making films that make a difference for decades, present their own personal odyssey through social issue filmmaking and lead an inquiry into impact through a series of interviews with funders, impact players, and a key NGO partner. This session will provide both an overview of the impact world and an opportunity for filmmakers and others to discuss the critical issues bubbling beneath the surface.

MODERATORS: Pamela Yates & Paco de Onis
Almudena Bernabeu, Brenda Coughlin, Jennifer MacArthur, Shaady Selehi, Emily Verellen

Indie Doc Sustainability, Part 2: Reflections and Q&A
LAFD MUSEUM

Informed economic thinking helps filmmakers navigate an increasingly fluid media environment. To thrive we must adapt, and to adapt we need to understand the way our world is changing. Jump-start your personal sustainability quest with this fresh perspective on the financial realities of our field. Building off the real-life issues raised in part 1, and with an eye towards helping the individual make sense of the madness, Peabody-winning economics/business journalist Adam Davidson and filmmaker/producer Esther Robinson reflect on the issues raised and connect them to the challenges and the opportunities at the front lines of the new economy.

Tina DiFeliciantonio, Casey Rae, Esther Robinson and Adam Davidson cap off the two Indie Doc Sustainability sessions with an audience Q&A.

Facing Reality
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS
For some doc makers “reality” is a dirty word. For others it means bread on the table and money to do personal work. But is the crossover to reality TV having an impact on their work? Are their doc values influencing their reality work? And does spending time with Honey Boo Boo, the Kardashians and RuPaul change how they look at the world? Five top producers who swing both ways help seek the answers.
MODERATOR: Stacey Wilson
Fenton Bailey, Joke Fincioen & Biagio Messina, Lauren Lexton, Jonathan Murray

10:45 am – 12:00 pm
When Impact Meets Art
LAFD MUSEUM
In one corner, we have the social issue documentary, determined to change the world; in another, the art doc, equally committed to moving audiences on the strength of its aesthetic vision. Are these films natural enemies — competing against each other for funding, audiences, and recognition — or simply the sign of a vibrant and diverse documentary culture? Filmmakers and other keen observers of the doc scene untangle the issues of impact vs. art in this lively discussion.
MODERATOR: Senain Kheshgi
John Battsek, Margaret Brown, Shola Lynch, B. Ruby Rich, Pete Nicks
10:45 am – 11:45 am
Here’s What Really Happened - THE SQUARE
W HOTEL - STRATEGY MEETING ROOM
Thom Powers and The Square Producer Karim Amer discuss the process of securing distribution for The Square, weighing options of theatrical, TV and digital platforms to help realize both the film’s social mission and financial goals.

Doing the Right Thing
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN
Are you an ethical filmmaker? This session confronts the issue of ethics and documentary filmmaking by grappling with several challenging ethical scenarios and then asking whether it’s possible — or even desirable — for the documentary community to agree upon a set of common ethical standards.
MODERATOR: Patricia Aufderheide
Ross Kauffman, Jesse Moss, Stanley Nelson, Gordon Quinn, Tracy Droz Tragos, Pamela Yates

1:15 pm – 2:30 pm
Behind the Festival Curtain
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS
Duck behind the festival curtain as filmmaker Doug Block leads a lively and candid discussion on the current role of festivals in the documentary landscape. What can doc filmmakers do to get the most out of a festival run? And how can festivals play their part in building a vibrant documentary community that will better sustain both audiences and artists?
MODERATOR: Doug Block
Deirdre Haj, Nina Gilden Seavey

Here’s What Really Happened - INEQUALITY FOR ALL
W HOTEL - STRATEGY MEETING ROOM
Producer Julie Goldman and Inequality For All producer Jen Chaiken run through the film’s hard numbers and sales figures to discuss the bigger picture pros and cons of equity financing and donated funds used to make the film a financial success for both the investors and the filmmakers.

1:15 pm – 2:30 pm
When Impact Meets Distribution
LAFD MUSEUM
In the beginning, there was just distribution. But now it seems, almost every film comes with an impact/outreach/engagement strategy, too. But are the two worlds in sync... or colliding? Distributors, filmmakers, impact producers and others describe the current state of affairs and point the path toward greater coordination and effectiveness.
MODERATOR: Brenda Coughlin
Susan Margolin, Joanna Natasegara, Elise Pearlstein, Tom Quinn, Debra Zimmerman

3:00 pm – 4:15 pm
Money Talks (and Listens)
LAFD MUSEUM
How can funders better support a thriving documentary culture? A candid discussion between Debra Zimmerman (Women Make Movies) and Ryan Harrington (Tribeca Film Institute) on the state of institutional documentary funding kicks off a frank and much needed discussion with the audience, including many of the field’s most prominent funders and the filmmakers they support.
MODERATOR: Bonni Cohen
Julie Parker Benello, Ryan Harrington, John Lightfoot, Cara Mertes, Lauren Pabst, Rahdi Taylor, Emily Verellen, Debra Zimmerman

3:00 pm – 4:15 pm
We Come as Filmmakers
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS
Documentary makers have been descending on unfamiliar cultures and communities in search of stories to tell since the days of Nanook of the North. But critics have been raising questions about their motives and methods — and the difference between empathetic exploration and prurient exploitation, between transnational solidarity and outright appropriation — for just as long. How can filmmakers responsibly negotiate entrance into communities that are not their own, and how do we ensure that marginalized communities have the opportunity to tell their own stories?

MODERATOR: B. Ruby Rich
Kate Amend, Julianna Brannum, Silas Howard, Stanley Nelson, Bernardo Ruiz, Renee Tajima-Pena

3:00 pm – 4:15 pm
When Impact Meets Broadcast
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

Television broadcasts — be they network or cable — have the potential to reach significantly larger audiences than any other forms of distribution. But does reach always lead to impact? Can the quest for ratings boost the quest for social change? How does a filmmaker know whether Nielsen numbers equal impact? How can impact this broad even be rated or judged? Broadcasters, filmmakers and impact professionals discuss the opportunities and limitations of creating change through mass media.

MODERATOR: Justine Nagan
Nancy Abraham, Courtney Sexton, Donald Thoms, Lois Vossen, Ryan White

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm
Here’s What Really Happened - CRUDE
W HOTEL - STRATEGY MEETING ROOM

Thom Powers and Director/Producer Joe Berlinger discuss the challenges and lessons learned from the making of Crude and the legal battle that engulfed it.

The Case for Public Media
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN
Public media has long been the showcase for underrepresented viewpoints and a home for independent documentary, and in the U.S. PBS, CPB, ITVS and POV are all critical components of a large and complex public media system reaching over 98% of American homes. How is public media different from private commercial broadcast? What do filmmakers expect from public media, and what does public media expect from filmmakers as both creators and citizens?
MODERATOR: Carlos Sandoval
Patricia Aufderheide, Sally Jo Fifer, Beth Hoppe, Simon Kilmurry, Brad Lichtenstein, Dawn Porter

9:30 am – 10:30 am
Here’s What Really Happened - CESAR’S LAST FAST

Creative Money Balance: A Hands-on Workshop on Career Sustainability and Personal Finance
W HOTEL HOLLYWOOD - STRATEGY MEETING ROOM
Are you ready to make a change? Do you want to create opportunities instead of responding to crises? To bring your creative and financial life into dynamic balance? To learn to navigate your financial life with creativity, clarity and strength? Of course you do! Take the issues around career sustainability to a more personal level by participating in this practical, hands-on workshop with Esther Robinson.
As both a filmmaker and founder of ArtHome, a non-profit that improves artists’ working conditions by providing them with tools to create financial stability in their lives, Esther is uniquely qualified to understand the dynamics and challenges of the documentary career and to provide you with a pathway to greater financial security.
Using straightforward language and artist-centric tools, Esther will give a step-by-step primer on:

- The Artist Core Strengths
- How to re-imagine your relationship to money
- How to understand outside forces and change unconscious behaviors
- Moving from solvency to stability to security
- Using goal-setting to create new validation paradigms
- The steps to a lifetime of making art and having the life you want

THURSDAY MORNING SESSIONS #2

11:00 am – 12:15 pm

The Filmmaker/Journalist Dilemma

PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

Some of the most hard-hitting and revelatory stories these days are coming from documentary filmmakers. But when filmmakers make an investigative film, what legal and physical risks do filmmakers face telling these stories independently? What are the ethical concerns in making a work of art while also claiming journalistic protection? This session will give filmmakers a clearer sense of potential risks and protections.

MODERATOR: Carrie Lozano

Karim Amer, Greg Barker, Gary Bostwick, Johanna Hamilton, Dan Krauss, Bernardo Ruiz

11:00 am – 12:15 pm

How Fair Use Changed the Documentary Form

ARCLIGHT CINEMAS

Ten years after the Fair Use door was kicked wide open, filmmakers continue to celebrate their creative freedom. But what affect has this had on the art form itself? In this eye-opening presentation, Fair Use pioneers Michael Donaldson and Pat Aufderheide will be joined by filmmaker Gordon Quinn for a fascinating exploration into the ways that Fair Use has transformed the documentary as we know it.

Invested in Docs
LAFD MUSEUM
Let’s face it, equity funding for docs is here to stay, but are docs a wise investment for the equity partner? for the filmmaker? Does a doc investor really expect a return? And at what cost to the filmmaker? Lots of questions. Filmmakers, investors and their matchmakers debate the pros and cons and provide some answers to help you decide if equity funding is right for you and your film.

Taking on the Powerful...And Getting Away With It
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN
What happens if your film takes on powerful corporate or government interests and they fight back with all they’ve got? Filmmakers who have been on the receiving end of this retaliation provide insight into the legal and public relations battles they have waged and offer their prescriptions for how filmmakers can be better prepared for and protected from the consequences that come with speaking truth to power.
MODERATOR: Marjan Safinia
Joe Berlinger, Michael Donaldson, David McMahon, Pamela Yates
1:30 pm – 2:45 pm
Creative Producing and Collaboration
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS

“Produced & Directed by” is often a credit you see on a documentary film. But can working with a producer not only benefit your film but help you toward career sustainability? What does it mean to be a creative producer and in what ways are they involved in the filmmaking process? Producers and directors discuss their collaborations, how they have developed these relationships over time and from film to film and the various ways that things can go right — and occasionally wrong — when forming a creative team.

Greg Barker, John Battsek, Julie Goldman, Johanna Hamilton, Ross Kauffman, Marilyn Ness

1:30 pm – 2:45 pm
What’s Gender Got to Do With It?
LAFD MUSEUM

Only 4.2% of directors across the top 100 box office films from 2002-2013 were female. In contrast, for the same period, 35.3% of directors of U.S. documentary films at the Sundance Film Festival were female. While the documentary data is encouraging, is it good enough? Join USC Annenberg School Professor Stacy Smith, author of multiple landmark research studies on gender and media; Cathy Schulman, Chair of Women In Film, Los Angeles; and a host of thoughtful filmmakers to discuss the latest thinking on how women are faring in the documentary space.

MODERATOR: Caroline Libresco

From Distribution to Sustainability: Four Doc Filmmaker Case Studies
PICKFORD - LINWOOD DUNN

Hybrid. DIY. ‘Direct-to-Fan.’ Much has been discussed about the “new model” of film distribution and marketing over the past five years that puts distribution directly in the hands of filmmakers. But are filmmakers achieving their goals with this model or is it all a smokescreen? What are some of major paths being used by filmmakers? Can you carry an audience from one film to the next? Are filmmakers branding themselves and to what long-term benefit? And, most important, are filmmakers able to use this model successfully to achieve career sustainability...and how?

With filmmaker and distribution expert Jon Reiss leading the way, take a deep dive into the brave new world of distribution as he explores four fresh case studies and interviews the filmmakers themselves about their direct experience with a range of distribution models.

MODERATOR: Jon Reiss
Neil Berkeley, Jon Betz, Judy Chaikin, Paco de Onis

Documenting Justice: Righting the Wrongs and Changing the System
ARCLIGHT CINEMAS

Films exposing the miscarriage of justice hold a distinguished place in the documentary canon. Whether seeking to right wrongs by exonerating the innocent or exposing deep flaws in the criminal justice system, filmmakers explore their roles as storytellers, artists and activists documenting injustice in America.

MODERATOR: Jamie Meltzer
Joe Berlinger, David McMahon, Dawn Porter

3:15 pm – 4:30 pm
Having Impact Behind the Camera
LAFD MUSEUM

Exposés of racism have been staples of documentary filmmaking since the 1960s, and even before. But what about racism’s often unspoken impact closer to home — on documentary crews and production teams? After years of “progress” a person of color is still much more likely to show up in front of a camera than behind it. Racial bias represents a significant barrier to a more inclusive doc filmmaking community. What can be done to level the playing field and make the doc world look more like the real world?
Join filmmakers and representatives from some of our leading documentary organizations to explore ways of eliminating bias in the doc world and expanding opportunity for all filmmakers.
